Rosemark at Mayfair Park Wins National Architecture and Design Award for Senior Living

Denver, CO—Rosemark at Mayfair Park won the 2016 Architecture and Design Award for Best Assisted Living Community from Senior Housing News. The 88-apartment assisted living and memory support community is located on East Eighth Avenue and Jersey Street.

“We’re pleased to have this amenity in the Mayfair neighborhood,” said Mary Beth Susman, Denver City Councilwoman. Rosemark attracts many residents from within a few blocks, assuring they stay connected to friends, family, healthcare facilities and cultural venues integral to central Denver, she added.

Rosemark at Mayfair Park was selected from the largest field of entries in the award’s history. “With so many new senior living communities popping up all over the country, we were honored that our contemporary approach won for best architecture and design,” said Anne Rosen and Mark Cytrynbaum, principals of Rosemark Development Group, which owns and managed the community from its Denver headquarters.

As the firm’s first senior living community, Rosemark Development Group brings a fresh perspective to the industry, said Cytrynbaum. Rosemark reflects themes that are increasingly important to older adults and their children, such as a balanced lifestyle, locally sourced menus, environmentally friendly surroundings and social connectivity. The stylish décor is reminiscent of an upscale hotel, while incorporating the latest unobtrusive wellness technologies.

A total of 33,000 square feet of interior community spaces are light-filled, varied and plentiful. Private apartments come in a variety of configurations and feature large windows, kitchenettes and private baths. The 72,000 square-foot community offers a high quality of life, with a wide range of amenities and programming along with highly trained staff who deliver personalized care and services, said Rosen.

“We at Studio Completiva are honored to have been part of a team that maintained such a clear vision, level of excellence and teamwork. This is an innovative and thoroughly thought-out development that raises the bar for assisted living,” said Yong Cho, principal of Studio Completiva.

The owners of Rosemark at Mayfair Park directed Lindsey Parsons, lead interior designer, to create unique spaces that exude warmth through natural elements and cheerful colors, while keeping in mind cleanability, durability and special needs of the residents, said Aneka Kerlin, president of Aneka Interiors Inc. “Working with this talented team was the most rewarding experience we have had as an interior design firm to date.”
